

Imposing a "broadband wiretap" would not provide a large enough positive return to offset the burden on the technical infrastructure.

U.S. technology does not need an unfunded mandate such as this at this time.